Starla Jackson and Dana Williams Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Starla Jean Jackson of Greenwood became the bride of Dana John Williams of Andover, at a double-ring ceremony at the United Methodist Church in Greenwood, Saturday, July 14, 1973.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jackson of R.D. 1, Greenwood and Mrs. Ray Witter of Andover and the late Kenneth Williams. Rev. Ray Albaugh, pastor, conducted the ceremony.

Matron-of-Honor was Mrs. Thomas Kent of Andover. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stephen Caparco of Henrietta, Miss Denise Kieff of Rexville and Miss Ann McCormick of Andover.

Best man was Thomas Kent of Andover. Ushers were Donald Lang of Alfred, Rodney Brown of Andover and Martin Brundage of Rochester.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal gown of imported nylon organza over taffeta with Victorian neckline, Empire waistline, and full bishop sleeves.

The A-line skirt swept to a full chapel train, and the bodice of the gown was accented with Venice lace with satin ribbon interwoven through it. The same motifs accented the neckline, sleeves and skirt of the gown, giving it the soft illusion look.

The bride wore a half-circle headpiece of Venice lace to accent the gown with a fingertip veil of four-tier French illusion. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white fuji mums, yellow sweetheart roses and white carnations, with white ribbon streamers.

The attendants wore formal gowns of imported sheer polyester over taffeta with Victorian neckline, modified Empire waistline and puff sleeves. They wore A-line silhouette skirts with ruffle to accent the bottoms of their gowns. The bodices were shirred white nylon pucker with Venice lace and satin ribbon accenting the neckline and waistlines of the gowns.

The three bridesmaids were attired in light blue skirts and the matron-of-honor wore the same with yellow skirt.

All four attendants wore picture hats of woven nylon to match the gowns with trim around the crown forming streamers down the back of the accent gowns.

The matron-of-honor carried a cascade of blue carnations and yellow daisies with yellow ribbon streamers. The three bridesmaids carried cascades of yellow carnations with white daisies and blue ribbon streamers.

Miss Melinda Lamphier of Greenwood, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown was identical to the other attendants except the skirt was in a pink organza print with yellow and blue flowers over pink taffeta. Her headpiece was a band of white daisies, and she carried a small basket of white daisies.

The church was decorated with altar vases of white snapdragons, yellow mums and blue carnations. The centerpiece was of yellow daisies, and blue and yellow carnations. The pews were decorated with yellow satin bows.

Soloist was Mrs. Ray Duke of Greenwood, cousin of the bride, and the organist was Mrs. Clair Rollins of Canisteo.

After the vows were spoken, the bride sang "One Hand, One Heart" to her husband.

Following the wedding, a reception was given in the Victorian Banquet Room of the Big Elms in Hornell. A buffet dinner was served to about 150 guests. The bridal table was centered with a blue and yellow floral piece. The four-tiered wedding cake was cut by the brides' aunt, Mrs. Richard O'Dell of Canisteo. Sherry Brundage of Scio, cousin of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

For their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride chose a white pant suit with pink accessories and a pink corsage.

Is Your GI Insurance Up-To-Date?

State Veteran Counselor James J. McLaughlin today called on veterans to review the beneficiary designations on their GI insurance policies to make certain the listings are up-to-date and provide for payment of proceeds in accordance with their wishes.

Many veterans, the counselor advised, fail to check their policies to be sure beneficiary listings are correct. Consequently, family members receive nothing, in some instances, when a veteran dies. The proceeds, he said, go to outdated listings of beneficiaries which may include old service buddies or girlfriends, since the VA must pay the beneficiaries of record.

It's easy to correct a beneficiary listing, the counselor said. It may be done by contacting the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs located at the Municipal Bldg., Wellsville, N. Y., on Tuesdays, and at the City Bldg., 108 Broadway, Hornell, N. Y., on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays.

The counselor explained that a veteran can name any person, firm, corporation or other legal Daisy Venice lace accented the neckline, waistline, sleeves and ruffles. A two-tier French illusion veil was caught by a Juliet cap of Venice lace petals and seeded pearls. The bride carried a cascade of yellow roses, daisies and lillies of the valley.

Miss Lee Feenaughty of Greenwood, was maid-of-honor, and the bridal attendants were Miss Karen Smith of Rexville and Miss Eugenia Cerrillo of Rexville.

Their A-line silhouette skirts were of Venice lace with satin ribbons interwoven to enhance the waistlines, necklines and bodices. They wore picture hats and long streamers at the back to match the gowns.

Miss Feenaughty's outfit was orchid. Miss Smith's was blue and Miss Cerrillo's was pink.

Each attendant carried a long stemmed white rose with a streamer matching her gown.

The best man was William O'Hargan, Jr., of Greenwood and the ushers were Brian Edwards of Andover, R. D. 2, brother of the bride, and Randy Heckman of Greenwood, the groom's brother.
