Miss Sheila Dawn Cook and Robert Eugene Brown

Exchange Wedding Vows Saturday, July 7

Candelabra and two arrangements of white gladioli and pink majestic daisies decorated the East Avenue United Methodist Church in Hornell on Saturday, July 7, 1973, for the 1 p. m. wedding of Miss Sheila Dawn Cook and Robert Eugene Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cook of 19 Conklin St., Hornell and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brown of Andover.

The Rev. Oren Schaffner, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Godown of Andover, were soloists. Daniel McManus of Hornell was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected an organza gown fashioned with an oval neckline, Empire bodice of chantilace and bishop sleeves with matching lace cuffs. Her illusion veil outlined with scalloped chantilace, extended into a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white daisies centered with pink roses and tied with pink and white streamers.

Mrs. Randie Brewer of Hornell, was matron-of-honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were the Misses Virginia Hollister, Colleen Griffin, Diane Hilsdorf, all of Hornell, Mrs. Richard Godown and Mrs. Thomas Kent, both of Andover.

Richard Godown was best man. Ushers were Rodney Brown of Hawaii, brother of the bridegroom, Thomas Kent of Andover, Robert Stoelker of Cherry Hill, N. J., Thomas Plavcan of Bridgeport, Conn., and Henry Stankiewicz of Huntington Station, L. I.

Beth Ann Brewer of Hornell and Kimberly Sue Cline of Elkland, Pa., nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

George Perry of Andover was ringbearer.

The honor attendant was attired in a gown of pink dotted Swiss with a ruffled scoop neckline, puff sleeves edged with lace, Empire waistline and A-line skirt with a ruffled hemline. She wore a white picture hat and carried a white and pink long stemmed rose with pink and white streamers.

The bridesmaids' gowns of floral dotted Swiss were similar to that worn by the matron-of-honor. They wore white picture hats with pink ribbon trim and each carried a pink rose with matching streamers.

The flower girls were attired in white dotted Swiss gowns styled like the other attendants' dresses. They each carried a nosegay of pink and white daisies with pink and white streamers.

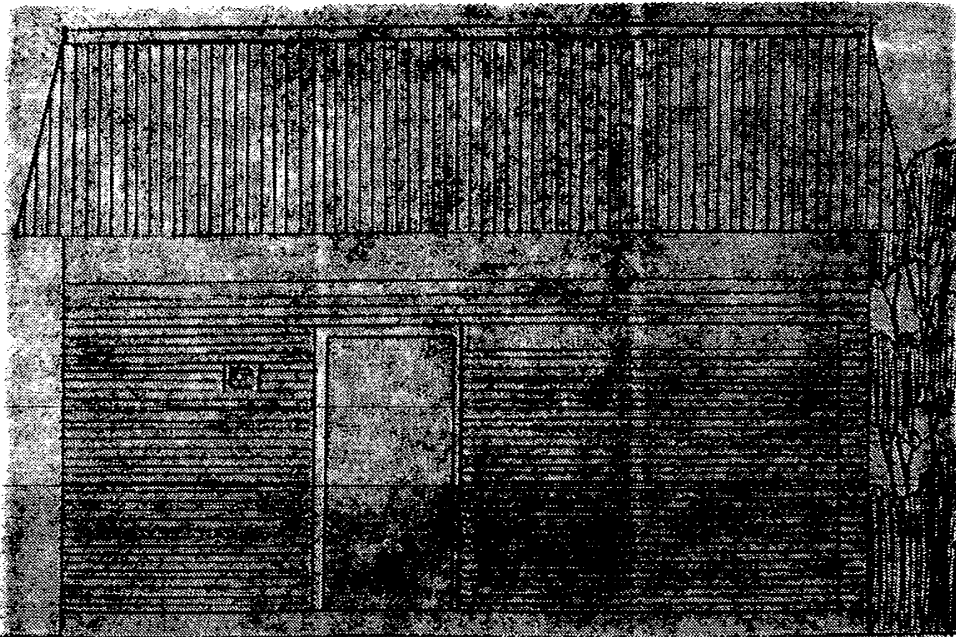

A reception was held at the Eagles Club for about 200 guests. A buffet dinner was served. The bride's table was centered with a candle encircled with flowers and a four-tier wedding cake cut by Mrs. Duane Cook, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Rodney Brown, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, poured, and Miss Lori Jackson, niece of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Linda Lee and the Shermen provided music.

The bride wore a pink and green print dress and corsage of pink roses for a wedding trip to Ocean City, Md.

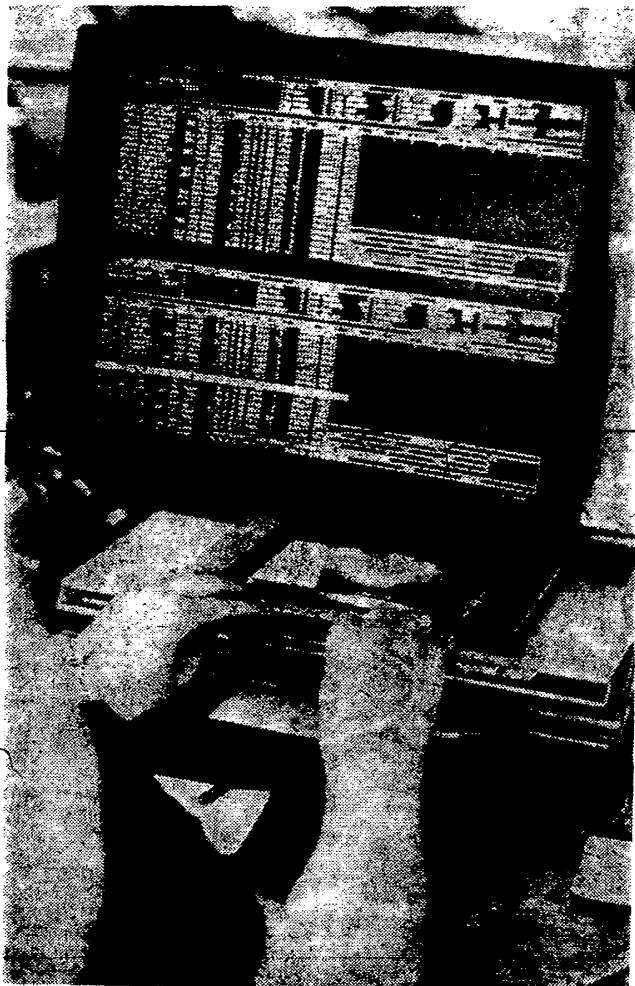

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Hornell Senior High School and the cosmetology course at Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Hornell.

The bridegroom, a 1969 graduate of Andover Central School and Villanova University, Class of 1973, is employed at the Combustal Engineering Plant in Windsor, Conn., where the couple will reside.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Bethesda, Md., Hawaii, Allentown and Elkland, Pa., Bridgeport, Conn., Cherry Hill, N. J., Plant City, Fla., Huntington Station, Rochester, Perry, Greenwood, Canisteo, Addison, Bath, Artport, and Canaseraga.

The microfiche viewer gives service representatives quick access to commercial records allowing her to answer most customer questions in a matter of seconds.

A major improvement in business office procedures has been introduced on May 1, 1973 by Iroquois Telephone Corporation.

The new project — called COM (Computer Output to Microfilm) — is a revolutionary way of keeping and retrieving customer records. According to George E. Housen, local manager, the result is a more efficient local business office and faster service for telephone customers.

The key to the new project is a plastic microfilm sheet — called a fiche — only four inches by six inches. Each one contains over 400 sets of customer commercial records. The microfiche makes it possible to take several file cabinets of different commercial records and bring them together to a central location — a microfiche file. This not only reduces storage space, but more importantly, allows each customer service representative to have a full set of business office records available at her finger tips.

The customer's telephone number is all she has to know to retrieve the answers to most questions. Then, she places one of several fiche into a TV-like viewer at her desk, and a composite image of the customer's records appears. All this takes place in a matter of seconds as the inquiring customer waits on the line.

Before the microfiche program, the service representative had to put a customer on hold leave her desk, rummage through one of several filing systems, and return to her waiting customer with the answer. If the customer had another question, the whole process — and delay — was repeated.

Many telephone companies are jumping onto one microfilm bandwagon or another. But most are converting only the customer's bill to microfilm. All companies in the Eastern Region of the Continental Telephone System are taking the composite record approach — all the customer's information together on one or two frames of the fiche. This includes billing register, billing stub, commercial record, transaction register, and service record.

The system was conceived at Continental's Eastern Region headquarters at Chantilly, Virginia, near Washington, D. C. This is where the computerized accounting and billing for the local company is done and where the production equipment for the microfiche program is located. The equipment consists of three basic units. A micromation recorder that reduces the billing data to 1.42 of its original size and photographs it as it comes out of the computer; a developer that processes the negative; and a third machine that prints extra copies of each microfiche.

Each month the local business office is sent a completely updated set of microfiche for all its customers.

Wellsville Whips Tournament All-Stars

Wellsville dominated play from the start as they shut-out a good Andover tournament team 12 - 0. Law went all the way for Wellsville to get the win. He surrendered 0 runs, 3 hits, 0 walks and registered 11 strike-outs.

Flanders started for the All-Stars and had control trouble. Llewelyn came on with Reagan and Hollister also seeing action.

McDowell had a grand slam and Law a 3 run homer to lead Wellsville.

Lauze had 2 singles, Richardson 2 singles, Styles 2 singles and Rix 3 singles to lead Wellsville.

The only hit collected for the All-Stars were singles by Dan Cook, Pat Atwell and Gary Porter. Players who made up the Tournament All-Stars were:

Dee King, Mike Holliser, Mark Flanders — Arkport
Gene Llewelyn, Greg Fergusen, Kevin Reagan — Addison
Pat Atwell, Eric MacMichael, Tony Dougherty — Andover
Joe Howland was added when Marty Geer was not available due to vacation and Tony Dougherty broke a bone in his arm.

Appreciation

I wish to express my deep appreciation and thanks for the many cheery cards, flowers and visitations while I was a patient in the Wellsville Hospital.
