Editorial

"Father of our Country" - that's quite a title for a human being. However, I believe that a man like George Washington deserves such a title.

He was the leader of Americans at a time in history when we needed a strong leader. He helped to develop a country, people could be loyal to, proud of, and a part of. Washington couldn't foresee corruption, luxuries, and problems which would travel to the very root of family and government.

Or could he? George Washington and his staff established a strong stable foundation for all people to look back at, admire, and wonder at. People will review our time in retrospect, wonder at, say a few words, and then forget. George Washington was a good and a strong individual. It's too bad that more of this kind aren't active today.

Senior Interview

Our special senior this week is Diane Mary Gorsuch, better known as Dee Dee. Dee Dee was born November 24, 1956 to Mr. and Mrs. Miles Gorsuch and has one sister, Kathy.

Dee Dee is majoring in science. She is also taking a course at State Tech three days a week.

Dee Dee has participated in many activities during her years at A.C.S. Included in these are Hi-Herald, G.A.A., F.H.A., and cheerleading, each for four years. She has been a member of the Soccer team for three years. She has been active in the Student Council for three years, having served as President in her Junior year. Dee Dee played the part of Laverne and Angel in the Junior and Senior plays respectively. This year she has been an active participant of the Yearbook Staff.

Dee Dee's plans for the future are undecided. Whatever she decides to do, all the students of A.C.S. wish her the best of luck.

Junior News

Beginning February 14, the Junior Class of A.C.S. will be selling Stanley Products. The sales campaign will continue for two and one-half weeks. Therefore, if a Junior knocks at your door, perhaps you will look at the Stanley Catalog and make a worthwhile purchase.

RIGHT TO ADVERTISE

Do you have a right to advertise whatever you please in your local newspaper, so long as you are willing to pay for the space?

No. As a matter of fact, ads worth millions of dollars are rejected annually by the nation's press, usually on grounds of bad taste or dishonesty.

To the advertiser who is turned down, this may seem to be unlawful exercise of power on the part of the newspaper. One merchant, whose ads were found unacceptable, raised that issue in a court test.

"A newspaper," he argued, "performs a public service. It has a duty to make its advertising space available to one and all."

But his complaint was denied. The court said that, since a newspaper is not a public utility, it has the same privilege as any other private business to turn down a customer.

That doesn't mean there are no limits at all on a newspaper's right to reject advertising. Suppose, for instance, that the rejection is part of a scheme to choke off competition and set up an unlawful monopoly. In such circumstances, the United States Supreme Court has ruled, the newspaper is violating the anti-trust laws.

What about the news and editorial columns? Could a person insist on being mentioned in those sections? Again, the newspaper has broad discretion as to what it will publish.

In one case, a reader went to court to complain that his letter-to-the-editor had never been printed. He based his complaint on the fact that the newspaper had invited its readers to write in.

However, the court said the newspaper's invitation for letters did not amount to a promise that it would print them all.

In another case, a political candidate sought damages from a newspaper because it failed to mention his name in a story about the election. But the court ruled that it was the job of the editor, not of the candidate, to decide what was newsworthy. The court said: "(The newspaper) must be the judge of the news it prints."
