Editorial

by Teresa Polmateer

A few times in a lifetime there come people who, for a short lived term, become very influential in your outlook on life and your feelings toward other people, classmates, or fellow employees. We here at A.C.S. have experienced this sensation due to a very special person - a person here for a short time, but one who has had a great impact on us. I'm speaking about our interim principal, Mr. Mosher, who probably by now has been "relieved of his duties".

It may seem surprising that I have such high regard for a principal. You know, a "prison warden" and all. However, Mr. Mosher has made the senior year a smoothly enjoyable one.

Mr. Mosher is a fine principal who has made A.C.S. prosper and work like a fine "Swiss watch". We students will miss him because we respected him. All I can say now is good luck in the future Mr. Mosher and good fishing.

Andover Has Additional DAR Winner

Andover Central School has just received word that Marcella Smith, an eighth grader, has been named a winner in the County Daughters of American Revolution Essay Contest.

Miss Smith, with the other Andover winners - Susan Bliss, Susan Dougherty, and Deborah Howland and the parents of the girls, will attend a tea to be held at St. Mary's Parish Hall in Bolivar on April 13, at two o'clock honoring all the county winners. Approximately ninety Andover Central School students submitted essays to this contest.

Penn-York College Night

by Rose Billings

The Penn-York College Night program was held at St. Bonaventure University on Tuesday, April 2. This program was designed to inform parents and students or how to obtain financial aid for higher education. Its purpose was to provide students and parents with more information about opportunities for higher education in a representative sample of colleges offering a variety of programs.

There were admission representatives from 100 colleges on hand to discuss their particular school and answer questions that the parents and students might have. It was very successful and rewarding experience for those who attended.

Senior Interview

by Marsha Baker

On September 12, 1956 a small package wrapped in pink came to Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Kelley, Sr. It was Nora Lynn Kelley. Nora has two brothers, Alan and Fred Jr., and one sister, Rebecca. Nora's majors in high school have been science and Spanish.

Nora played the part of Maria in the Junior Play in the part of Mrs. Sartin in the Senior Play. She also worked on make-up.

As for activities Nora has been very busy. She has participated in Marching Band and Senior Band for four years. She has sung in Choir for three years and been in All-County for two. Nora also spent four years in FHA and was elected Parliamentarian in her junior year. She participated also in GAA for two years, Red Cross for one year and Hi-Herald for one year.

Nora is also sports minded. She played basketball for three years, soccer for one year and volleyball for one year.

To Nora, we all wish the best of luck. She intends to pursue a career in travel either as a purser or a travel agent. Nora has been accepted at the Atlantic School of Airlines in Inglewood, California. Again we students at ACS all wish Nora success in all she attempts.

Senior Interview

The spotlight this week focuses on Donald Ives Lang, born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lang, on July 18, 1955. Donn has two brothers, Dick and John, and one sister, Becky.

Donn is majoring in art and music. Besides his studies Donn has participated in many activities. Included in these activities are Senior Band, five years; Dance Band, three years; Pep Band, four years and Choir, two years. He has been in All-County Band and received the All-County Band Award. Donn has also participated in Cross County Soccer and swimming. He is a member of the Varsity Club. In his junior year he was Red Cross President; he also had a part in the Junior Class play. Donn plans to travel and further his study of the arts. We all wish you the best of luck, Donn!

Illness Closes School

A high percentage of absenteeism caused by the illness of the student body was responsible for the closing of school last week. School was closed Wednesday thru Friday and classes resumed as usual on Monday, April 8.

On Thursday, April 18, the seniors will depart for the White House for a tour and then to the Washington Monument. At 1:00 P. M. the students will leave Washington for their trip back to Andover. The seniors will arrive back in Andover at approximately 9:00 P. M.

Remember When

by Rose Billings

REMEMBER WHEN:

We use to count the years until graduation, and now it's only days? The girls had pig tails and the boys brush cuts?

Listening to the Beatles and wearing go-go boots was all the rage?

The clocks were broken and we just about went out of our minds waiting for class to end?

We used to fight over who would get the best swing on the playground?

We used to bring a treat to our class on our birthdays.

Sophomore Paper Drive

Save All Newspapers, Wrappings and magazines.

A Paper Drive will be sponsored by the Sophomore Class. This will take place April 27 from 8 o'clock until 11:30 in the morning of that Saturday.

Please deliver the papers to the Andover School. If you are an invalid or are unable to bring your papers to this location, please call 478-8725 and arrangements will be made to pick them up.

Interviewer

A word found in the dictionary was defined by some people around ACS. The word was "schuss" and here are some of the definitions:

- Mr. Graves - the 8th Grade
Don B. - something you scrape off the side of the pool on Fridays
Chad G. - a cross between scam and puss
Mr. MacCrea - a castle in Germany
Lou S. - a playboy
Mrs. Woodruff - "shoo", get away
Laurie T. - a word Miss Sullivan made up
Timmy M. - a cheater
Sara P. - sophomore girls
DeeDee G. - Brian L. face
Brian L. - his truck
The true meaning of "schuss" is a high straight ski run.

Twenty states have enacted some form of new no-fault auto insurance law covering about 42 per cent of the U. S. population.

Sixth Grade Essays

The following essays were written by Mrs. Boyce's sixth grade students:

If I Were Eighteen!

When I'm eighteen, I'm not going to smoke or drink. The reasons why are really obvious after we had all those health classes with Mrs. McCormick. Another reason is we heard those two men talk about drinking and smoking. At first I couldn't wait to be old enough to smoke and drink but after hearing them, it's not for me. So it is just like they both said, I'm not going to smoke or drink and I'll live a better, happier life.
By: Ronald Glover

If I Were God

If I were God I don't think I would do a very good job. The real God always was and always will be. My grandma says I worry too much. You see God is calm and knows what is going to happen. I know because if He was worried the earth would shake. On second thought maybe that is why sometimes we have volcanoes and hurricanes. Maybe even God gets nervous. Nobody will really ever know unless one day He might tell somebody. I hope that somebody will be me. I can pray!
Michele McNeill

I Wonder Why

I wonder why the earth goes in such a pattern around the sun.

I wonder why we have just about everything we need, or maybe I should say, everything we WANT.

I wonder why everything is so orderly. Having breakfast before lunch and lunch before supper, supper before breakfast and so on. Then day before night and night after day.

I just wonder why.
Kelly Dunham

I Wonder Why

I have just about a hundred reasons why I wonder and I could give you a few.

1 - I wonder why people go around in the nude?

2 - I wonder why people want to be the president?

3 - I wonder why people kill or do a crime?

4 - I wonder why people start riots and wars?

5 - I wonder why people let people starve?

And that's just a few reasons why I wonder. The reason I wonder is because there is so much pity or poverty going around in this world of mine, yours, everybody's!

MY ONE WISH

My one wish is that everybody in this world loved one another as much as you love your Mom and Dad. And you know I believe we could do it if we set our hearts to it.

Keep On Buying Savings Bonds.

Select Seed Carefully

Attractive seed catalogs and colorful packets on store shelves are a great temptation to the impulse buyer.

Selecting the kind and variety of vegetables to grow is not an easy task, says Prof. Leonard D. Topoleski, vegetable crops specialist at the N. Y. State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell University.

The success or failure of the garden may be determined by the choice of variety planted, he says. Therefore, some thought and checking need to be done before final selection is made of either seeds or transplants.

Varieties differ in the time of maturity, quality, and in disease resistance. This information is noted on each seed packet, as is the percentage of germination and the date of seed testing. Some indicate, also, which varieties are best suited for preservation by freezing.

Topoleski points out there are many excellent seed firms in the Northeast which have developed varieties adapted to New York State's growing season. Also, New York seed laws protect the gardener from poor seed and misrepresentation.

Choosing varieties with built-in resistance to diseases can prevent many problems and assure a larger crop. New resistant varieties have been developed of peas, beans, cucumbers and tomatoes, all commonly grown crops, and Topoleski urges gardeners to choose these resistant varieties.

He also advises gardeners to purchase only the amount of seed they intend to plant. This will save money. Fresh seed can be bought next year. Plan carefully, measure the length of the row to be planted to each vegetable, and purchase accordingly.

If a large planting of a particular vegetable is to be made, the larger, more economical packets can be purchased. The one-half ounce packets are usually more expensive, but are more practical when a very small amount of the variety is to be planted.

To have snap beans and some other vegetables mature over a long period of time, the same variety can be planted at two to three week intervals rather than buying and planting several different varieties. For a large garden, the variety collection or variety kits offered by seed companies are usually less expensive than are the individual seed packets.

Also, Topoleski reminds gardeners to check varieties when planning to make successive plantings. Some varieties of spinach, for example, are suitable only for spring and others for fall planting. Peas do well in early spring and very poorly in mid-summer.

Topoleski says thought and care taken in choosing seeds now may produce a better garden and save time and energy later.

The food programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, including food stamps, child nutrition programs, commodity donations, supplementary family feeding programs and nutrition education, will amount to about $5.9 billion or 64 per cent of the Department's cash outlay in 1975.
