Grocery Gems & Goodies

by Phil Fitch

Well folks did you miss us last week? Matter of fact, we had the fever that hits us every year about this time of the year and, the only cure is to go out hunting and try to bring in one of those elusive wild Turkeys. Well, we tried anyway!

Now to the business on hand. As we all know, the sugar market has gone wild with Louisiana Sugar Producers holding part of their crop back which has resulted in prices sky-rocketing. In fact, in addition to price raises, sugar is in such short supply that many stores are having to place a limit on sugar purchases.

In the fruit line, Navel Oranges from California are due to become more available later this month with volume shipments beginning in December. Vegetable-wise — cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli are at very reasonable prices with a good supply for the present time.

In the meat line, chicken and beef are still stable and pork prices remain constant — for this week anyway.
