Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a Bi-Centennial gown of polyester crepe and nylon lace, which she made. Her elbow-length bouffant veil of tulle was held in place by a headpiece of lace pedals and seedpearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and white roses tinted red, and white streamers.

The Matron of Honor wore a gown styled like the bride's only in navy blue and white lace with a white hat and scarf. The bridesmaids wore the same only in red with the white lace and hat and scarf. Each carried a long-stemmed carnation, the colors to match the dresses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Snyder selected a red calico Bi-Centennial dress and a corsage of white carnation trimmed in red and blue. The bridegroom's mother chose a two piece light blue dress and jacket and also wore a corsage of white carnations trimmed in red and blue.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the North Fork Grande Hall. The wedding cake was made by Doris Dibble of Harrison Valley. The bride was wearing a white dress when the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada.
