The Legion made good on their celebration. They will clear $400 from proceeds of the three-day festival. It rained all three days intermittently. The Legion had a benefit picture show and Charleston Contest Saturday night at the Auditorium. Sunday afternoon the Andover Band played a splendid concert from the balcony porch of Hotel Joyce, even tourist stopped to take in the concert until Officer Kilbane had his hands full in keeping the traffic open to the public. Sunday evening an interesting service was held in the Auditorium. It was a song fest led by a community choir composed by members of all the various Church Choirs in Andover with violin solos by Alice Rogers. The Rev. Findlay of Cuba, a World War Veteran, gave a very interesting talk. The Auditorium was packed. It rained Monday forenoon, but cleared off by 1:00, so 15 floats were in the Parade, but the line of march had not quite passed through Main Street when it began to rain and the parade was ruined. In the evening the show and dance was held at the Auditorium with about 100 couples enjoying the dance.
