BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

For Christmas Treats—Some Savings Tricks

By Willis W. Alexander, Executive Vice President American Bankers Association

If the need for Christmas gift funds has you robbing Peter to pay Paul, or even going into debt, why not begin to think now about planned systematic savings for next year?

No, it's not easy. Many of us tend toward good intentions while the bite is on, but then come the end-of-season sales, a leak in the roof or a yen for a vacation—and out the window goes the plan.

For this reason, most banks across the country offer an incentive to help you fulfill your 12-month goal. It's called a "Christmas Club." This account is designed to promote systematic savings by providing you with a reminder coupon for the amount you determine you want to save weekly, biweekly or monthly.

When you sign up for a Christmas Club account be aware that you are signing a contract which includes certain stipulations. Generally, these are printed in the coupon booklet and include such things as forfeiture of interest if you do not complete the one-year payments.

Questions have been raised about some banks not paying interest on Christmas Club accounts. The reason is economic. The deposit amounts are often too small to offset the expenses involved in handling the paperwork.

The Federal Reserve Board, which analyzes bank costs each year, says small- and medium-size banks actually lose anywhere from 73 to 87 cents per account even without paying interest.

If you're loaded with will power and anxious to have your money earn interest, it's easy to arrange. Open a regular savings account, write out a payment schedule for yourself—and stick to it.

You could even dream up your own penalties for skipping a payment. And, plan a reward for yourself at the end of your 1977 Christmas shopping spree with a special treat paid for out of the interest earned.

Or, you could arrange for your bank to automatically transfer a set amount from your checking to your savings account each month. You might even begin a dime or quarter collection at home and periodically deposit all coins of that denomination in your account. Tricks? Yes, but tricks to provide nice treats—this time next year.
