Basic Scuba Diving Course Offered at Alfred

A basic scuba diving course for students and area residents will be offered this fall at Alfred State Agricultural and Technical College under the auspices of the Office of Continuing Education.

The course, which costs $65 for 32 hours of instruction, will be taught by Dr. James Rausch of Alfred University, who is certified by the National Association of Underwater Instructors (NAUL), and by Greg Spradling, Alfred State College swim coach who is certified by the Professional Association of Diving Instructors (PADI).

An orientation and swim session for those interested in the course is set for 7 p. m. Sunday, Sept. 18 convening in Room 245 at the Orvis Activities Center. All classes will be from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m Sundays, with enrollment on a first come, first served basis.

The 32 hours of instruction will include 11 hours of lecture and 22 hours of the college pool. An additional part of the course will be three or more open water training dives at Conesus Lake.

Dr. Rausch, who has been diving for nearly 15 years, is an associate professor at Alfred University and has been involved in marine zoology programs in Florida. He also conducts a marine zoology course for the university on the island of San Salvador, Bahamas, every January.
